DRAYTON VALLEY, ALBERTA -- AUGUST 16, 1972

River Flow Halted to Fill Bighorn Power Reservoir

The flow of the North Saskatchewan River was halted near Nordegg last week to allow the creation of Alberta's largest man-made lake. The Bighorn Power and Storage Development nears completion, and the flooding of the lake marks one of the final steps in the construction.

The project is a joint venture to supply power production for Calgary Power Ltd., and water control benefits for the province.

The river was stopped at noon Tuesday, when a 200-ton concrete gate was lowered across the inlet to a diversion tunnel, and water began backing up to fill the valley to the west.

The final stages of construction on the project--completion of the power house and topping off of the earthfill dam--will continue for about 80 days.

Situated about 75 miles west of Rocky Mountain House, the Bighorn Power and Storage Development will provide additional peak power for Alberta's growing needs and further alleviate pollution in the North Saskatchewan River, on which it is located, by helping to regulate the flow of this river.

The earthfill dam when completed will be 300 feet high and will back water up in a reservoir which will have a length of some 20 miles and a surface area of 13,700 acres. This reservoir area has been cleared of all brush and timber.

Water will be supplied via a 1,100-foot long power tunnel to the power house containing two 75,000 HP turbines turning two 54,000-kilowatt generators to add annually some 400,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy to Calgary Power Ltd.'s system.

The cost of the project will be about $43 million.

In early November the first of the generators will

The North Saskatchewan River was closed last week to allow flooding for the Bighorn Power and Storage Development. Flooding over an 80-day period, will create Abraham Lake, running 20 miles to the west of the dam, 75 miles west of Rocky Mountain House. The Calgary Power Ltd. project will begin producing power in November.

Silver Dollars In Circulation

Mr. "Bob" Mayhew of Mayhew Motors has introduced a novel method of measuring the economic influence a local company has on a community.

This week Mr. Mayhew's staff will be paid in silver dollars. As the silver dollars pass through the various hands of merchants and in the change of purchasers, attention will be drawn to his company and staff.

NEPTUNE SWIMMERS IN FINALS

Neptune Swim Club season is coming to a close the end of August, with only the Regionals and the Provincials left.

Drayton Valley placed fifth in the Fort Saskatchewan meet August 6, and swam in Leduc last weekend.

Swimmers now face the Regionals at Bonny Doon in Edmonton this Saturday and Sunday. Top three swimmers in each event will then go on to the Provincials in Calgary August 26 and 27. Neptune coaches Linda McGowan and Ron Tibbits place hopes on one or two of the Neptune swimmers to win in the Provincials this year.

Other pool activities will be completed by the end of August, with the pool closing for winter in mid-September. There are two weeks of swimming programs left, with openings for any wishing to enroll.

Pool Supervisor, Linda McGowan, feels that the 700 swimmers-a-day average is comparable to last season, although Drayton Valley experienced cooler weather this year. Records show that more out-of-towners were taking advantage of the pool than in previous years.

M.P. Spending Summer Recess in Constituency

Allan Sulatycky, Liberal member for Rocky Mountain Riding, and his wife, Marilyn, were visitors to Drayton Valley August 14.

At a luncheon held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLean, Mr. Sulatycky met with the Senior Citizens and outlined the new federal program, "New Horizons". Mr. Sulatycky said that some of the projects planned by the Senior Citizens were of a qualified nature and that he would give information and assistance to the Drayton Valley group.

be commissioned and the discharge of water from the power plant will commence. In early December the second unit will be commissioned and from then on the plant will be in daily operation with one or both units operating for several hours each day.

During the 80-day storage period the five-mile stretch of river between the dam and the Bighorn River will receive virtually no water. Downstream of this point, however, the various rivers and creeks entering the N. Saskatchewan River before it reaches Rocky Mountain House will ensure that, at the very minimum flows, there will be one third of the flow which would have occurred if storage were not taking place.

At Edmonton, the flow in the river will be about 70% of normal if a wet August and September occurs. Should these months be dry there will be a marked reduction in river flow and in that case additional stored water from the Brazeau Reservoir will be released to augment the flow in the North Saskatchewan to ensure that there will be no appreciable effect on water supply or pollution in the river at Edmonton during this period.

When the plant commences regular daily operation, the effect of the project will be to help even out the flows in the North Saskatchewan by storing water during the spring run-off period and releasing increased flows during the winter.

Bible School

Daily Vacation Bible School will be held August 28 to September 1 in the Church of God from 9:00 to 11:30 a.m. Classes include kindergarten age to teenage, and everyone is invited to attend.

Mrs. Frances (Frankie) Smith

28-Year Paper Career Ends

Mrs. Frances Smith, accountant, advertising manager, and general newspaper woman with the Western Review for the past seven years, has retired after 28 years in the newspaper business.

Born in Edmonton, Mrs. Smith began her newspaper career at the age of 16, when she worked part-time for her father, Mr. Ben Knowles, owner of the Fort Record in Fort Saskatchewan. Mr. Knowles, mayor and councillor for the town for several years, taught her the basics of newspaper production--linotype and press operation, ad layout, page make-up, and bookkeeping.

In 1949, she married Ron Smith, son of a free-lance writer, and employee of the Fort Record.

The two continued in Fort Saskatchewan until Mr. Smith joined the Edmonton Journal staff in 1963. He bought the Drayton Valley paper in 1965, and the two with their family of three children have worked here since.

Of their three children, only Birnie is still home attending high school. Cherryl (Mrs. Calvin Wall) lives in Fox Creek and Douglas, accompanied by Allister Waugh is working his way around Australia before returning to a working career in Canada.

Mrs. Smith now plans "to let the future take care of itself."

Although she is now (officially) retired, she anticipates occasional returns to the newspaper office to help out when required.

has been set up to aid various senior citizens groups to start projects which will keep them active and take advantage of their skills and knowledge.

Mr. Sulatycky gave the stock answer when queried about an election, replying, "Ask Mr. Trudeau, but I'm not sure he is certain of the date."

Looking tanned and well, Mr. Sulatycky was accompanied by his wife Marilyn. Their children are in Whitecourt for part of the summer before returning to Ottawa.

The Rocky Mountain riding is one of the largest of all ridings and the member said he and his wife had many more miles to cover before his return.

Starting in Waterton area where they encountered snow in July, the Sulatyckys' visit to Drayton Valley marked the half-way point on their riding tour.

Football Plans Discused At Meeting Thursday

The Minor Football Committee of the Drayton Valley Athletic Association held its pre-season annual meeting on Thursday evening in the Council Chambers of the Town Hall. Twelve persons were present at the meeting which was chaired by Drayton Valley Athletic Association President, Tom Hutton.

The 1971 program was reviewed and the financial report was presented. The inventory on equipment and supplies was also reviewed.

The coaching situation was discussed and at this time the number of coaches offering their services is very gratifying. Three Head Coaches have volunteered to work with a team to date. We have Bruce Clemmer, who will lead the Blue Bombers, Bill Hanson will take over the Stampeders and Dale Clemmer will be at the helm of the Eskimos. Dennis Kirkwood, Morris Tocheniuk and Dwane Whelen volunteered as assistant coaches and Terry McGowan will be back again this year. About three more assistant coaches would be required to adequately fill the bill.

Training and conditioning sessions for all teams will get under way at 5:00 p.m. on Monday, August 14 and will continue throughout the week. Equipment will be issued toward the end of the week and regular season play will get underway on Monday, August 28. Each team will play eight games during the regular season which will be followed by a playoff. The complete season is set to close out around October 15.

Several rule changes were presented and discussed at the meeting. A new feature in the Little Canadian Footbell game this year will be unlimited blocking on returns of kicks from scrimmage. The Football Committee unanimously adopted this rule which will be in effect similar to the Canadian Intercollegiate ruling in this matter.

The proposed change of points for a convert or point after a touchdown to conform with the ruling in College Football where a successful kick is worth one point and a pass or a run is worth two points was turned down by the Committee. The Little Canadian ruling will remain exactly the same as outlined in the C.F.L. Rule Book.

Rough play and unnecessary roughness came under some stern discussion. It was felt by all present that strong measures should be taken to eliminate all unnecessary roughness from the game. In the future any player guilty of "grasping a face mask" will merit a 15 yard penalty plus disqualification for the remaining part of the quarter of the game in question. If this offense or any other foul involving rough play or unnecessary roughness is flagrant the offending player will immediately be disqualified from any further participation in the game and his case will be referred to the Football Committee of the Drayton Valley Athletic Association.

The ruling on timing of the game was changed. Now the game will consist of 48 minutes of actual playing time with 12 minute quarters. All rules governing game time are exactly as those in the C.F.L. Rule Book.

Officiation was discussed in detail. More qualified officials are required in this program. Any person who could help out in this way are asked to get in touch with the Recreation Office by phoning 542-3440. The importance of competent officiating was stressed by everyone present and an official's training program was proposed. The chief purpose of such a program would be to establish conformity in the work and decisions of all officials involved. Timekeepers, scorers, statisticians, downsmen and yardsmen are also required if the program is to reach its' potential success. Any person interested in this Little Canadian Football program and who would like to assist in any way will find an advertisement in another section of this newspaper. Fill in, clip and return to the Recreation Office. We need your help.

The Bantam Football program was discussed. Because of problems involved, no organized Bantam Football will be played in Drayton Valley this fall. The best that could be expected would be a couple of games against Edmonton teams late in the season. The question in everyone's mind was whether this would be worth the effort, time and cost involved. The Committee recommeneded that the organization of Bantam Football be kept in mind and further steps be taken in this direction in 1973.

The age grouping for Little Canadian Football is 11 to 14 years. That is, a boy must have reached his tenth birthday prior to 1972 and he must not have reached his fourteenth birthday prior to January 1, 1972. The teams are still to be formed by means of the U.C.L.A. selection system.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

By KEVIN PETERSON

What Premier Lougheed intends to make a regular feature of his government policy began recently with a "meet-the-people" visit in Innisfail.

Shortly after his election last fall, the new premier promised he would spend each Thursday touring some area of the province, gathering concerns and ideas from the people who elected his government.

But the pressures of taking over the administration and setting up his first legislature session kept the premier off the main street for almost a year. Now, he admits the weekly target was "too ambitious" but is convinced he can hit the road twice a month.

The Innisfail tour--a healthy dose of main streeting combined with visits to local industrial concerns--was designed as a prototype for futre excursions. It worked so well, with both the premier and the local citizens expressing approval, it likely will become the form for future visits.

The day started with a breakfast with local community and business leaders. They had been warned in advance of the premier's visit and had their concerns well-prepared.

Mr. Lougheed was no sooner seated than the local officials got down to brass tacks: a pitch for continuation of the Bowden Institute and the local need for better hospital facilities, especially for senior citizens.

With the local conditions impressed on his mind, the premier was off on a whirlwind tour. First it was a visit to the immaculate Shell refinery on highway 2 north of Bowden, then a lengthy stop at the Stramit Construction plant.

The premier was obviously pleased with the Sramit visit. The company holds Canadian rights to a Swedish process that uses hay to manufacture plywood-size boards that can be used for roofing or moveable office partitions.

But the local manager also told Mr. Lougheed the province could help out. Changes in the National Building Code are making the product less competitive with conventional materials--and the premier wasted no time in having an aide help the company set up its lobbying for help.

As the premier said later, the incident showed that "many of the problems of small business are not economic but stem from regulations."

The entire visit was a reminder of last year's election campaign, but was less hectic. More tours of other communities are certain to be conducted soon.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EDITOR
The Western Review;

I hope all mothers who allow their children to go swimming unsupervised read this letter.

On August 6 my boyfriend and I went to Seba Beach to go swimming. While we were sitting on the main pier, a young boy about eight or nine years old fell into the water and almost drowned. If we hadn't been there he would have drowned because besides us on the pier there were only three or four young children who were not concerned in the least about this child's welfare.

It was obvious this child could not swim but if my boyfriend hadn't resuced him, he would have drowned because there was no one else there to see him.

This experience left me shaking for a long time because you just don't expect to see someone, by themselves, in very deep water when they can't swim a stroke.

Sincerely,
Jan Nobert

IT'S A TOUGH LIFE

"I'll run over and pick up my unemployment check, and then go over to the U and see what's holding up my check on my Federal Education Grant, and then pick up our food stamps. Meanwhile you go to the Free VD Clinic and check up on your tests, then pick up my new glasses at the Health Center, then go to the Welfare Department and try to increase our eligibility limit again. Later we'll meet at the Federal Building for the mass demonstration against the stinking, rotten establishment."

Benches Popular

The benches recently given to the town by the senior citizens are proving popular. They have been placed at strategic points around town and a weary shopper can be assured of a few pleasant moments of pause and rest.

The benches are well made of steel and wood and have an excellent appearance.

A tip of the hat to the senior citizens on their worthwhile gift to the town.

Hockey Series

Drayton Valley sports buffs are starting to talk up the hockey series which starts in September between Canada and Russia.

Hockey has always been considered our national game and much speculation has been raised on the point of a world championship series. Harry Sinden, coach, in a T.V. interview Sunday stated "I think we'll win, but it won't be a push-over series". He further stated conditioning was his biggest concern as the Canadian team only had three weeks. They are in training in Toronto.

Check your times and dates for the series and avoid disappointment.

Editorial — Comment

The Future Belongs to the "Stay-Ins"

At this time of year many are considering the merits of returning to school and many others are trying to evaluate the necessity of education in relation to their future.

One of the first things that must be considered, is, that educational levels and earning levels are closely related. A well educated man or woman, demands, and, on a national average gets, a better income.

Another area worthy of consideration is the ability to compete.

Poorly educated persons often find that they are unable to move about in the general work force and are confined to one type of work (often not the work of their choice). This lack of freedom of choice may weigh heavily ontheir outlook towards gainful employment.

People with a higher education are often able to make decisions more quickly and with more assurance. Thus they often are able to grasp opportunities that would would normally be missed.

A decision that sometimes aids in formulating a future plan is to ask oneself, "What do I want out of life?" The answer often is "What are you prepared to contribute in time, effort, imagination and preparation?"

There is a little song entitled "The Best Things in Life are Free." A lovely little song -- but it's hogwash!

To enjoy the many things that nature has so bountifully bestowed on us, it's pre-supposed that we have kept our minds and bodies in a state whereby we CAN ENJOY THESE THINGS. These conditions of mind and health are not free, you earn them.

Education, in general, exercises and keeps our minds healthy, if we are aiming at worthwhile goals. Physical education is just another of the many courses our young people are being offered. They have the opportunity to be participants not just spectators.

There are unfortunates, who through no fault of their own may be having difficulties. This editorial is not intended to slight them in any way. In many instances these people turn their stumbling blocks into stepping stones and far excel their fellows.

Still need pioneer spirit

(The Sackville Tribune-Post, N.B.)

The first European pioneers staked out their homesteads in Canada 374 years ago. On July first this year we celebrated the 105th anniversary of the day when their successors brought together their scattered hamlets and settlements into a confederated nation.

All history is the story of continuous exploration and discovery and colonization. If we are not to suffer national stagnation we need to bring to life again the pioneer spirit, encourage freedom to change and grow; be willing to entertain suggestions, and provide growing space so that every person may develop skills to the fullest extent of his ability.

Every man and woman in Canada can invent something, do something new, or do something old in a better way. There are opportunities for pioneers in industry, agriculture, education, finance, literature, music, art, technology and home making.

Everyone is to some extent a pioneer. He notices a situation wherein improvement can be made, foresees the course of events a little, pictures in his mind's eye a desirable outcome, and devises means by which he will bring about the betterment. Every generation produces people who seek after new lamps, and some are as fortunate as Aladdin.

The men and women who came into Canada in the 1500's were starting life, as it were, once more at the beginning, subsisting roughlyin a land where there were none of the comforts of Europe. They fell back upon long-inactive instincts and they relearned forgotten crafts. Civilized people of anciently cultured lands, they did the labour of priitive races so that they might survive and forge ahead.

Here were pioneers from two great nations, forced by their environment and isolation to modify what they had learned so as to fit the ruggedness of the land in which they had chosen to build their homes.

To their credit, they coped with the austere existence of the frontier, modified their thoughts and habits, and made experiment and adjustment amid the novel life of forest and prairie. They were sustained by expectation, enterprise, energy and courage, and they created a nation.

Some people think that because there is so great evidence of progress since those days the picture is complete, but there are many unfinished jobs, incomplete inventions, unborn ideas and new problems. We need the pioneering spirit as urgently as ever.

Cooling Plan Proposed For Lake Wabamun

Calgary Power Ltd. will go to the Energy Resources Conservation Board "within the next few days" with plans for a cooling device at the Sundance plant on Lake Wabamun.

Walt Saponja, senior engineer for Calgary Power, said Monday that the company will recommend one particular cooling method with suggested alternatives.

Mr. Saponja said the company favors a cooling pond from which the plant would draw water for cooling purposes, discharging hot water back into the pond.

He told a public meeting in Stony Plain in June that loss of water through evaporation requires that "make-up" water be found, possibly from the North Saskatchewan River via a 10-mile pipeline.

If the Energy Resources Conservation Board approves a system, equipment must be ordered quickly so construction can begin next spring, Mr. Saponja said.

The provincial government is co-ordinating studies on the weed problem near the Wabamun plant, across from Sundance plant, but there are not results yet, Mr. Saponja said.

The engineer told the Stony Plain meeting that the total bill for environmental protection will be about $50 million.

Ivan Vowk (r) presented Corporal Charlie Davies his stripes in a promotion celebration at Wabamun July 14. All county constables in charge were promoted to corporal by the county.

The bride came down the aisle on the arm of her father. Her gown was floor length of pieu de soie satin with lace trim, empire waist and sheer sleeves. The flowing train was removable. A waist length veil was held in place by a small pieu de soie cap, and Sherral carried a bouquet of red roses with cascades of rose buds.

They wore indentical gowns in pastel shades of rose, yellow, blue, and mauve in sheer with empire waist and puff sleeves. The skirts had colored petals over a long white skirt. The bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of daisies with colored ribbons to match their dresses.

Leslie Hunter, niece of the groom was flower girl, her dress was the same as the bridesmaids in pale green. She carried a basket of daisies with green ribbons. Ring bearer was Trenton Gelmici, cousin of the bride. He wore a white suit and shirt with a green bow tie and carried the two rings on a small round satin pillow.

Groomsmen were Louis Balen, Bill Hanson, Jack Tucker and Jack Cathrea. The groom and his party wore dark brown tuxedoes with shirts in colors to match the girls dresses.

Present were Chairman Peter Bakker, Councillors Leslie N. Miller, George Mann, Maurice McCullagh, Ivan Vowk and Jacob Fuhr, District Agriculturist Tom Brown and Fieldmen William Moelhoff and Ott Reich; Advisory Committee member Dave Case.

The minutes of the last meeting held June 30 1972 were adopted.

The meeting on hail, crop and weather modification at Leduc on July 4 was attended by Mr. Mann, Mr. McCullagh and Mr. Brown.

Mr. Robert A. Bailey arrived at this time.

COMMUNITY PASTURE

Moved that the Agriculture Committee contact the Jack Pine Grazing Association as to the possibility of having a member of the Committee, D.A. or technical people attend their meetings as an observer.

A report was given by Mr. Moelhoff on the Provincial Field Day and Weed Tour and accepted.

The Agricultural Fieldman's report was presented by Mr. Moelhoff and accepted.

Increasing dissatisfaction with the quality of the grading of roads in the County is mounting. Evidence indicates that the operator's skill makes the difference between a well-maintained road and a poor one. The advisory Committee on a previous recommendation was informed that training was offered to operators. The Advisory Committee is not convinced that this program is operating to the satisfaction of County residents. The Advisory Committee recommends that the Public Works Manager be made aware of the dissatisfaction and that there be an evaluation of the operator's training program. A reply from the Public Works Manager would be appreciated. The report was accepted.

Correspondence including Weigh scales for sale by United Grain Growers, appointment of Pest Control Officers, Lime Plot Tours (attended by the D.A., Mr. Earle Lowe), and Warble Control Policy, were accepted as information.

A letter was received from Sherman Yelland, Plant Industry Division enquiring as to location of any grist mills that use stone grinders to grind farmers' grain.

An Indian soothsayer in Jaipur looks into the future to predict whether or not a husband looms on the horizon for the daughter of Indian woman in above photo. Soothsayers are plentiful in India, and tourists can find out about their futures for a few pennies.

Indian Soothsayers Look Into Future

FOR centuries, parents have worried about the future of their children.

Just about all parents want to see offspring grow up, get married, and have children of their own.

In many countries, parents don't usually take a hand in finding a mate for their children, while in other lands, marriages are arranged.

In India, however, anxious parents are often soothed by soothsayers — of which there are no lack. In fact, it seems that just about everyone becomes a soothsayer at one time or another in India, predicting anything from future husbands or wives to the weather.

Tourists visiting India often have their fortunes read by street-side soothsayers. No elaborate crystal balls, or fancy North American style darkened rooms are needed by the Indians. They'll give it to you straight from the shoulder for a few pennies.

So if you want to know about the man or women of your dreams, and you happen to be going to India for a visit, be sure to solicit the advice of a soothsayer.

Who knows — maybe you'll become a believer.

Reed Berryhill with his 19 lb. jackfish

Tomahawk News

Pete, Bina and their son Reed, recently went on a four-day fishing holiday to Touchwood Lake east of Lac La Biche. Fishing was excellent and to prove it, Reed caught a 19-pound jackfish.

Saturday night, August 12, about 25 ladies honored Judy Larmour, Larry Hindziuk's fiancee, with a miscellaneous bridal shower at the Rec Centre. Guests from out of Tomahawk were Mrs. Larmour and two of her neighbors; and three of Mr. Ostopchuck's cousins, one from Winnipeg and two from Ontario. The gifts were opened by the bride with the help of one of her bridesmaids, Marie Hindziuk. A lunch was served after a "thank you" from Judy. Jane Enjendski was in charge of the shower and Doreen Hindziuk supplied the cake. Larry and Judy are to be married August 26 at St. Anthony's in Drayton Valley at 3:00 p.m., with a reception to follow in Tomahawk.

Posters are up announcing the travelling playground for all ages. It will be held Monday and Tuesday, August 21 and 22, with several classes of Arts and Crafts, music and sports. There will be a wiener roast Monday and a wind-up pot luck supper Tuesday evening. Everyone welcome.

District Convention To be held in Edmonton

Canadian headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses has extended an invitation to the entire congregation in Drayton Valley to attend the four-day district convention to be held at the Edmonton Gardens August 24-27.

Delegates from this area will join the expected 4,000 who will travel to Edmonton from all parts of Alberta for religious training and direct communication with others of the faith.

Convention officials commented, "A key feature of all our assemblies is in providing counsel from the Bible on problems, pressures and dangers facing Christian youths and adults in today's society. Therefore, we stress family delegations. It's not just dad who comes; he appreciates that the whole family wants to have a part. And we invite each and every one in the congregation. All sessions are designed to provide beneficial spiritual instruction for each delegate."

The Edmonton convention is one of 20 scheduled throughout the principal cities in Canada during 1972. Bible talks, demonstrations and full-costume Bible dramas will be featured throughout the four-day program.

Principal speakers at the conference will be G.W. Sallis of Toronto and R.W. Wallen of the World Headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses in New York.

Featured talk of the assembly will be "Divine Rulership the Only Hope of Mankind" to be delivered Sunday, August 27, 3:00 p.m. All sessions of the convention are open to the public and a cordial invitation is extended.

New Owner Takes Over Evansburg Hotel

Paul Berzniuk officially took ownership of the Evansburg Hotel August 1,when he bought the building from Alec Federanko, who had operated the premises for the past seven months.

Born in the Ukraine, Mr. Berzniuk came to Canada in 1937 when his parents took up farming near Seba Beach.

He took his schooling at Seba Beach, and began his working career with Northern Alberta Railway.After 2 1/2 years on the B & B gang, he went to the oil rigs in Stettler for another 2 1/2 years, then into production with Shell Oil.

He came to Drayton Valley with Pembina Pipe Line, where he stayed until September of 1967.

Tired of the oil business, Mr. Berzniuk began a new life in the hotel business at Mirror, east of Lacombe. He owned and operated the hotel for 4 1/2 years, and then took the opportunity to buy the Evansburg Hotel.

His plans for the hotel include a license for hard liquor, which will be available in a couple of weeks.

Hail Light During Past Month

The extremely cool July brought with it one consolation for the farmers of Alberta--very little in the way of damaging hail. Thunder showers were very frequent during the month, and hail was actually recorded somewhere between Edmonton and Calgary on 24 days. This is above the long-term average of 21 days. However, because of the cool weather, most of the storms were short lived and produced only small hail. During the month in the Alberta Hail Studies project area, farmers sent in a total of 460 reports, which is less than half the usual number for July. And of these reports, a much smaller than usual per centage were for large stones.

Most of the damage was reported on three days when a significant amount of hail walnut size and larger was reported. All of these storms had very similar characteristics. Each produced a swath of large hail between 20 and 40 miles in length and between 3 and 6 miles wide. Funnel clouds or tornadoes were reported in all of the storms, and in two cases the tornadoes demolished farm properties. The first major hailstorm occurred on July 8 between Crossfield and Three Hills, the second came out of the foothills west of Sundre and over to Olds on July 23. The most severe storms so far this year hit the northern part of the project area on July 28 -- the date on which severe hailstorms often occur. Two storms were tracked on this date - one from Buck Lake to Hobbema and the other from Camrose to Daysland. Sixty farmers reported hail golfball size or larger on this date.

In July 1972 there was a complete lack of the large persistent storms which persist for several hours and lay a swath of destruction at least 100 miles long and sometimes up to 200 to 300 miles long.

In the southern reporting area between Calgary and the Montana border no significant hailstorms were reported in July. Spotty small hail occurred on 11 days, but only on one day was hail larger than grape size reported.

After the severe storms on July 28, the month ended on a quiet note and so far in August there has been very little hail.

A couple of weary backpackers, suspecting that they were hopelessly lost in the foothills, turned angrily to their guide: "Where are we?"

"Well, I couldn't tell you exactly," admitted the guide.

"You said you were the best guide in Alberta," said one of the hikers.

"Well," said the guide sheepishly, "Maybe we've crossed over into B.C.

Award of Merit to Courageous Workmen

Workmen who risk their lives to save a fellow worker from serious injury or death in an industrial accident are to be given recognition by The Workmen's Compensation Board.

Announcement of the new "Award of Merit" plan was made Tuesday by Charles R. Gilbert, Acting Chairman of the Board. Awards for those who perform outstanding acts of courage will be recommended to the Board by a representative committee after considering the circumstance in each case.

"A prime example of individual courage and prompt action be considered for the 'Award of Merit' was the incident last Thursday in Edmotnon," said Mr. Gilbert, "when a workman nearly lost his own life in an attempt to rescue another employee on the same project."

Ronald Zelles went to the aid of a fellow workman, Michael Kurach, who had been overcome by toxic fumes while painting the inside of a cylinder 14 feet deep. Mr. Zelles collapsed during the rescue attempt and had to be resuscitated by external heart massage by firemen who had been called to the accident.

"Such instinctive response to the peril of a fellow workman exemplifies the high regard of workmen for one another. Courageous acts of this nature, in complete disregard of the personal risk involved, deserve to be recognized," concluded Mr. Gilbert.

In establishing its new ed Mr. Gilbert.

In establishing its new "Award of Merit" project, the Workmen's Compensation Board will be acting on behalf of business and industry in Alberta.

LIBRARY NEWS

Did you know that the library receives the Alberta Hansard? Not many people will care to read all the booklets but a little search will turn up the debate on any subject which came up at the last session of the legislature. Even a random sampling can be interesting as I found when the fixed election date issue was turned up.

In the past two weeks new books have been added in every category. Some of these are: "The Gingerbread Man" with some of the most beautiful illustrations you can imagine. "The Rooftop Mystery" is an I Can Read book. The series is very popular with the six and seven year olds. "Mischievous Meg" and "Bedknob and Broomstick" need no introduction to the younger crowd.

"The Will To Be Free" is a collection of escape stories written by the people who made the escapes. "The Tamarack Tree" by Betty Underwood is a story of change in a small Connecticut town in the 1800's. "A New Penny" by Bianca Bradbury is the story of a teen marriage. "Harriet the Spy" tells of the ambitions of a twelve year old who would like to become an authoress and what happened when her diary fell into the hands of her school mates.

Non Fiction books include one on rug making, one on house plants and a large one on family games. There are also several new books of mystery and from the really new books of fiction for adults is a new Delderfield, a new book by Janice Holt Giles, Irving Wallace's latest "The Word", a story of the discovery in the ruins of the ancient Roman seaport of Ostia Antica of a first century papyrus written by James, younger brother of Jesus.

A sincere thank you to Mr. Tom Johnson who has donated books to the library.

Elephant Can Run 30 m.p.h.

Although lions are the big attraction with tourists in South Africa's world-famous Kruger National Park, it is the wild elephant for which one should show the greatest respect.

Most of them are peaceful enough if left alone, but the visitor should remember that a charging bull can reach a speed of 30 m.p.h. For that reason, special warning is given touists driving through the park in their own cars. Do not pass cow elephants with young ones, the advice goes, and never stop a car while an elephant is ahead of you. Instead, drive past him before stopping -- and keep the engine running in case you have to drive off in a hurry.

Kruger, which is nearly three times the size of Banff National Park, attracts 400,000 visitors a year. Its population includes 8,000 elephants, 1,200 lions, 600 leopards, 450 cheetahs, and countless thousands of other animals.

Canadians -- 40 per cent more than the year before -- visited South Africa last year.

We are receiving many requests to identify diseases and insects and pests attacking spruce trees. Needle rusts are affecting native and ornamental Spruce trees over a large area from Evansburg to Drayton Valley. Needle rust is caused by fungi that are parasetic on specific hosts.

Little white to orange red spore producing pustiles erupt on infected needles. Most needle rusts cannot infect another coniferous host directly but must complete their one-year life cycle on deciduous plants.

Severe needle rust infections will defoliate trees and result in loss of growth and reduce vigor.

Sawflies have been another major problem. Although the majority of damage will already be done, now is the time to learn to recognize the damage.

The adults emerge from the soil from May to September. Eggs are laid on the upper surface of leaves and discoloration will appear around the point where the egg is inserted and will spread as feeding occurs between the upper and lower surfaces. There may be 2 to 4 generations a year.

1. This species of sawfly is common throughout the prairie region. It favors open growing trees such as shelterbelt and single ornamental trees. While the larvae are young they eat only part of the needle but as they grow larger they devour the entire needle of both old and new growth. Loss of needles usually is noticed first near the top of the tree and gradually lower as the season progresses. Trees should be examined during the latter half of May or early June to determine if the trees are infested.

2. Early detection of an infestation is necessary for good tree maintenance. As soon as yellowing of the top or defoliation is noticed the trees should be sprayed with Malathion as directed on the label for caterpillars. Repeat in 10-14 days if larvae are found on the trees at this time. (Apply only when temperature is 60 degrees F or above).

3. Adult sawflies emerge from cocoons in late May and early June, shortly after the buds burst. Pale green eggs are laid on the new needle growth and yellowish-green larvae hatch in 7-14 days. Feeding continues for 3-8 weeks. The full grown larvae are 3/4 inch long, olive green somewhat lighter beneath, with dark lines along the back and sides and have a conspicuous yellowish-brown head.

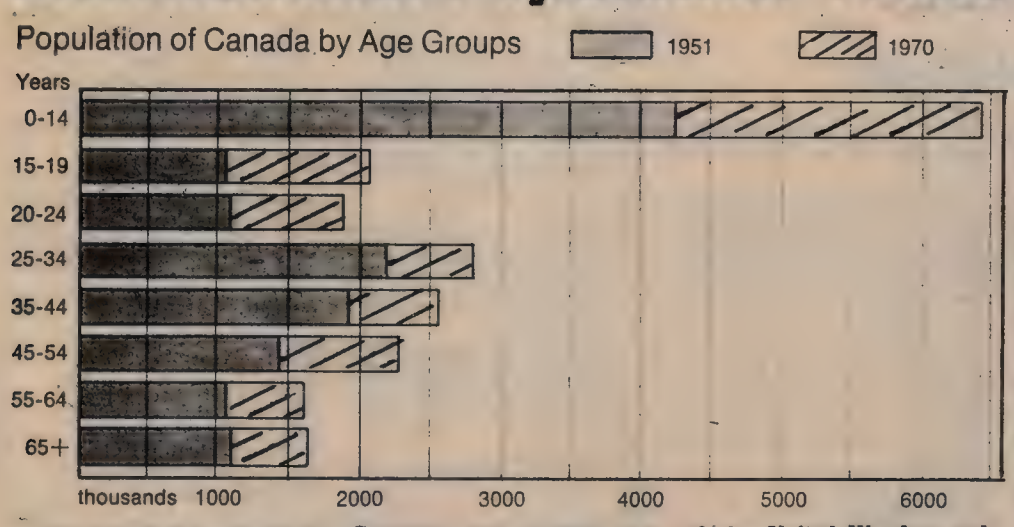
International Population Trend



The growth of population in Canada, even at its slower rate during the last decade, is significantly greater than that of other large industrialized nations. Canada's 1.8 per cent average annual gain for the sixties, compares with 1.5 per cent for the U.S.S.R. , 1.3 per cent for the United States, 1.0 per cent for Japan, West Germany and France, 0.8 per cent for Italy, and 0.6 per cent for the United Kingdom. The absolute population of each of these countries is, of course, much larger than Canada's - ranging from about 2 1/2 times in the case of France, Italy and the United Kingdom, to almost 10 times for the United States, and almost 11 1/2 times for the U.S.S.R. Just how small Canada's population is can be "projected" from the following mathematical exercise: at the growth rate of the sixties, it will take Canada to the year 2023 to reach the 1969 population of the United Kingdom and to 2109 to equal that of the United States.

CROWN ROT

Crown rot of apple trees is a fungus disease which rots the bark of trees just below the soil surface.

It's difficult to detect, and can be costly to growers.

Scientists at the Agriculture Canada Summerland, B.C. , Research Station are carrying out research which they hope will eventually allow them to advise growers when treatment may be needed , control the disease, and eventually eliminate it.

Regional, Urban and Age Trends in Canada

Canada's population during the last twenty years has become increasingly mobile and this mobility has been reflected in the rapid growth of urban areas and the movement from provinces of slower economic growth to those with better employment opportunities.

Thus, British Columbia, Alberta and Ontario realized the largest population gains in the last two decades, rising respectively by 83.4, 70.4 and 66.1 per cent. All the other provinces grew by less than the national average of 52.6 per cent.

This pattern became even more pronounced during 1969 and 1970 when British Columbia's population grew by 3.4 per cent and Alberta and Ontario by 2.5 per cent. The other provinces were all well below the 1.5 per cent average growth rate for Canada.

Since the mid-1920's, more than half of Canada's population has lived in urban centres. The 1966 census (the latest statistics available) showed that 74 per cent of Canada's population were city dwellers, compared to 70 per cent in 1961 . The 1971 census is expected to show a ratio of approximately 80 per cent. The most urbanized provinces are Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia, with 75 per cent or more of their populations residing in urban areas.

Some indication on the mobility of the Canadian population can be obtained from the record of address changes for mothers who receive family allowance cheques from the federal government. Between 1960 and 1970, an average of 24 per cent of these families changed their addresses to another within the same province each year, while 2 per cent changed their address to another province. If the average Canadian family consists of four people (husband wife and two children) approximately 2.5 million people, or almost 12 per cent of the total Canadian population moved annually within provinces. This mobility is mainly into and within urban areas, particularly the metropolitan centres. Mobility between provinces is considerably lower, reflecting movement mainly from slow growth areas to those that are developing faster.

Canada is a country of young people. In 1970, 61 per cent of the total population was under 35 years of age. The age group up to 14 years accounted for 30 per cent of the total population. This represents a decl[illegible] from the recent high of [illegible] per cent that was reached between 1961 and 1964. As a consequence of the post-World War II baby boom the age group of 15 to 24 year olds has been growing more rapidly in recent years, and in 1970 it accounted for 18 per cent of the population, compared to 16 per cent in 1965. The percentage of the population over 45 years of age remained stable at 25 per cent through most of the 1960's, but has climbed gradually in recent years, reaching 27 per cent in 1970.
